YOUNG PEOPLE'S CLASSES REGISTRATION AT ART MUSEUM

It's time once again to register for The Cleveland Museum of Art's wide range of popular courses for children and young people--from Dragon Feathers to Landscapes East and West--as well as classes that parents may take while their children are exploring, painting, constructing, and creating artworks elsewhere in the Museum. Adults are offered an informal drawing class in the afternoons (registration and fee required) and free, walk-in morning gallery talks about the many cultures represented in the Museum collection.

Young People's Classes, scheduled every fall, spring, and summer, focus on the Museum collection and give young people the opportunity to develop an understanding of art through seeing and making art during gallery visits and informal studio sessions designed for students ages three to seventeen. This fall, classes will be held on eight Saturdays, October 19 through December 14 (no classes November 30). All classes are offered twice--first at 10:00-11:30 am, repeated at 1:30-3:00 pm. Open registration is Saturday September 28, at 10:00 am-3:30 pm; Museum members may register a day earlier, on Friday, September 27, at 10:00 am-4:00 pm. The class fee is $25 for nonmembers and $15 for family members, and must be paid at registration; classes for children and their parents are $40 for nonmembers and $30 for members. Museum family memberships are available at registration. In cases of financial need, limited assistance is available by calling 421-7340, extension 182, before registration. Each student must be registered by an adult, in person, at the Museum; children need not be present to register. Class size is limited and enrollment is on a first come, first served basis. The enclosed brochure describes all the course offerings this fall.
